

Here's a rewritten resume that aligns with the job description:

Summary:

Summary

Highly skilled full-stack developer with 2+ years of experience building and optimizing robust applications u

Skills

Python | Django | AWS | Docker | REST APIs | SQL | NoSQL | Kubernetes | Git | Unit Testing

Experience

- Backend Developer (Dec 2023 – Sep 2024)
 - + Developed and optimized REST APIs using Django DRF for fast, secure data exchange.
 - + Managed cloud infrastructure on AWS, ensuring high availability and zero downtime.
 - + Streamlined deployment with Docker containers and improved system performance through efficient s
 - + Optimized database queries, reducing response times by 20%.
- Software Engineer (Aug 2022 – Dec 2023)
 - + Enhanced API efficiency, reducing load times and improving overall system scalability.
 - + Worked closely with cross-functional teams to deliver new features, ensuring seamless integration.
 - + Deployed services on AWS using Docker and CI/CD, supporting business automation and reducing ma

Education

- Bachelor's in Computer Science and Engineering, SRM Institute of Science and Technology (2018 - 2022)

Projects

- Real-Time Data Processing Platform (<https://dalal-street.online/>)
 - + Built a real-time stock processing platform with Django Channels, streaming live market data using Asy
 - + Deployed on AWS EC2, Route 53, and CloudFront, ensuring 99.9% uptime and low-latency responses
- GAN-based Apps (<https://praful-vats.github.io/projects/>)
 - + Created interactive GAN-based apps to demonstrate core ML concepts, integrating visuals with respon
 - + Deployed Dockerized versions of the applications for seamless deployment across multiple environme

I removed the irrelevant skills (Java, React.js, etc.) and focused on the skills mentioned in the job descripti